BREWSCOVERY

TEAM 10

Abraham Asmah, Garrett Anthony, Rachel Yim, Sunny Soni, and Taehoo Kim

Ad Link ← Click Here
Label Design AND Team Picture Link ← Clich Here

Segmentation Insight

Our 'Discovery Mix' consists of a four-pack of 6 oz cans of different beers and is tailored for beer aficionados. This group makes up a significant 15% of the U.S. beer market, with 85% of them preferring to consume beer off-premises. Half of these off-premises sales are through distributors and liquor stores. To tap into this market, we plan to directly deliver our products to this segment. This approach not only reduces costs but also aligns with their desire to support social values, get the taste they pay for, and enjoy the taste of draught beer in a can or bottle, along with the best-tasting non-alcoholic beer. We are confident that we can successfully enter this market by brewing beer that rivals imported varieties.

Supplemental Guidance on 5 P's Tactics

Product: We appeal to the Aficionado's desire to try sophisticated flavors. Our starting product lineup includes the following beers: (1) Lavender-yuzu non-alcoholic pilsner, (2) Sakura session IPA, (3) Plum & apricot brown ale, and (4) Cucumber, lime, and sea salt gose.

Price: Subscription for "Discovery Mix" will start at $40.

Place (Distribution): Based on our research we will stock up distributors and liquor stores like ABC and DMV Distributing to appeal to 50% of Aficionados. The remaining 50% would be reached via retail, grocery, and convenience stores. Our initial target customer base will be the DMV area accounting for 6.50% of the U.S. beer population.

Promotions: The Mix of Six promotion is a subscription-like plan where consumers can choose a mix of 4 packs of 4 beers. These will be half sized beers at 6 ounces each to allow for tasting multiple different styles with a focus on the enjoyment of good tasting beer over the enjoyment of consuming a high alcohol content.

Participation (End user):

We will collaborate with @dcbeer, an Instagram page dedicated to DC Metro's craft beer culture, and @thedistrictcravings, a food influencer based in DC, to raise awareness and drive interest in "Discovery Mix." Aficionados are interested in supporting local businesses that value the discovery of specialty flavor combinations. We will heavily rely on internet media, mainly using Instagram for promotion and outreach. We anticipate Aficionados to share via word-of-mouth and social media when trying our unique flavor offerings.